The City's Finances.

The city of Mt. Sterling is able to make a splendid showing financially. She is out of debt, has a comfortable surplus in the treasury and a large amount of uncollected taxes still due. Besides, she holds judgement against parties which when collected will bring her in some $5,000 or $6,000 additional. There is now in the treasury over $7,000 and her total indebtedness (in bonds not yet due) is $3,000. The members of the present council are certainly entitled to the thanks of the city for the manner in which they have managed her finances. They have given us an economical administration of our city affairs. Many abuses and jobs that will creep in now and then in spite of the most watchful have been reformed and cut off. The council too has not shown a niggardly spirit but has been disposed to see that their way clear to do so to have such improvements made in the way of opening new streets and paving them as they thought the city could stand. Having put the city on a sound financial basis the majority of the members begin to think the time has come when yet more extended work in the way of opening new streets etc. may be favorably considered.

The Cabinet Makers are still at work for Mr. Cleveland. The desire to save him trouble, or forestall any wishes he may have by working up a strong public sentiment toward certain men to occupy places in his official family, no doubt is a strong incentive for their self imposed task. One of the latest items in this line, is a very positive assertion, that Judge Gresham is to accept the portfolio of State. We will know more about what Mr. Cleveland will do after March 4.

The malodorous ordinance, passed by the City Council some time since, at the instance of certain "doctors," of the city, and directed at those physicians who dare to pay Medical Ethics, so little regard, as to use printers ink in letting their business be known, was given a trial in the City Court Thursday, and declared worthless. If those physicians, who are so wofully troubled, lest someone in the community should employ an incompetent doctor, who is not a stickler for the strictest adherence to the ethics of the profession, would study their cases more and "ethics" less, it would be better for them and their patients as well.

The fondness many horses evince for a stable companion is well known and according to a Western paper the last day, Kentucky Union, 2:13, is one of the kind. The paper mentioned says: Kentucky Union, 2:13, is a nervous little piece; and her driver, Sam Fuller, had a little terrier of which she made a companion and friend. While shipping with the car door open, a sudden turn in the road threw the dog out, and when Kentucky lost her friend she began raving around in a manner that told better than words of her great sorrow. When she finally landed in winter quarters at Sedalia, she would tear down the blanket under which her playmate used to hide, and no amount of condolence from her driver or groom would take the place of her lost companion. Fuller would pay a liberal reward for the return of the unfortunate dog.

Gents nobly hats in colors, at Sharp, Trimble & Dantons.

President W. H. Dulaney, of the Board of the World's Fair Managers, has issued an address to the people of Kentucky stating that the board proposed to have a creditable display, in spite of the loss of the valuable time caused by Auditor Norman's pig-headedness. An appeal is made to all Kentuckians who have objects worth exhibiting to open correspondence with the Commissioners at once. Mr. Dulaney says most of the work is well under way, and Kentuckians will have no reason to be ashamed of their part in the World's Fair. [Courier Journal.]
